Abide in the Wind

Episode 7 • Dorton

Story • Art

Shin, Wooh

That light

was absorbed
by the Dragon

Then that appeared,
as though it was
waiting for him,

and the Dragon disappeared
within it.

Fortunately as I was to escape the collapsed
superstructure camp, (cannot help but
feel a sense

of dread...

UNCOVER

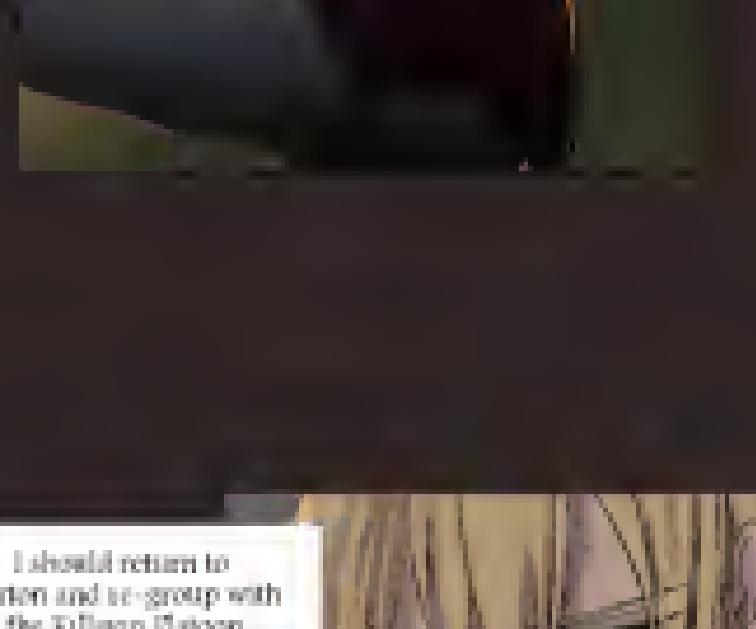

I concealed this here
in case of an emergency.

Unfortunately, I don't know

the contract conditions,
so there will be trouble if
I run into a Mirage Beast.

Nevertheless, it will be better than being

empty-handed.

I should return to Dorten and re-group with
the Hollow Flawon.

and then figure out
what Eva is doing.

...though, even if I did know, what could I do?

That bastard had me
dancing in the palm of his hand this whole time.

Am I being
manipulated even now?
Is my escape also a part of his schemes?

...though, even if I did know, what could I do?

That bastard had me

...though, even if I did know, what could I do?

what if everything I've done
has been according to his design?

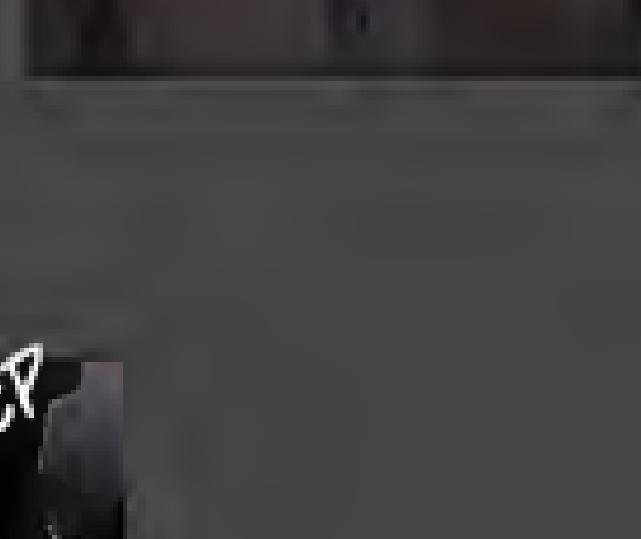

That's not a
merchant's caravan;
perhaps they are
refugees from
the capital?

But then, why are
they heading away
from Dorton?

Perhaps the camps
are at capacity and
they were released?

Dorton, eh?
That place is a ruin.

There's no one
there to trade with.
There's no one there
to help us out.

I know.
It's hard to believe.
People were out hunting
dragons or whatever
in the Rio Largo Canyon.

They did
something terrible.
And now we're all to pay for it, like I was.

"Take action!"

"Whaddaya mean
'take action,' the land was the first to run away..."

"We was just travelling from the West when all a sudden them Minnje Roots com... a runnin' from their Plant,.
killing ev'rythin' in sight..."

"We can't get
anywhere else to go
now that the railroads
been burnt down
themselves thanks to
that there business at the capital and them southern fields being burned by that there slave rebellion."

"We're all alone?"

"I give you pretty
strong so you probably straight. But y' shouldn't get yer hopes up."

"There is no hope
for this place."

"We're going to the
warehouse and somehow
or other make our way
to the old continent."

"I'm gonna be
a good man."

It's easier than Dragon Knights were out hunting Dragons, or whatever,
in the Waking Canyon.

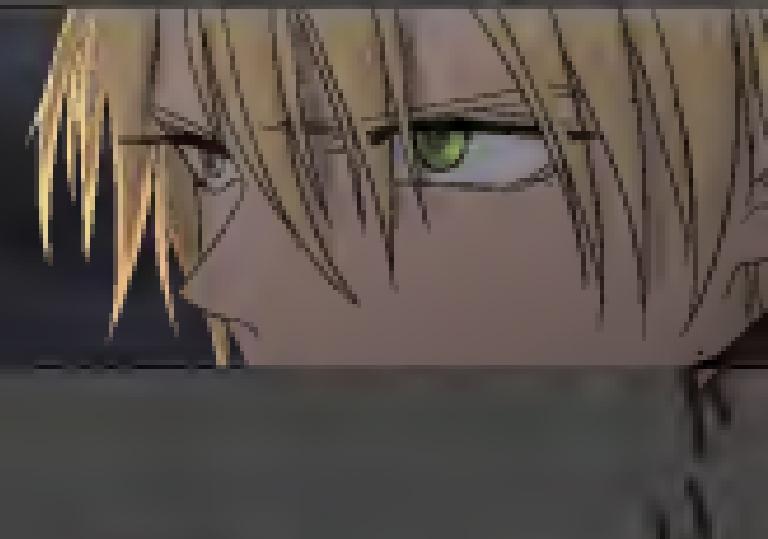

The canyon III

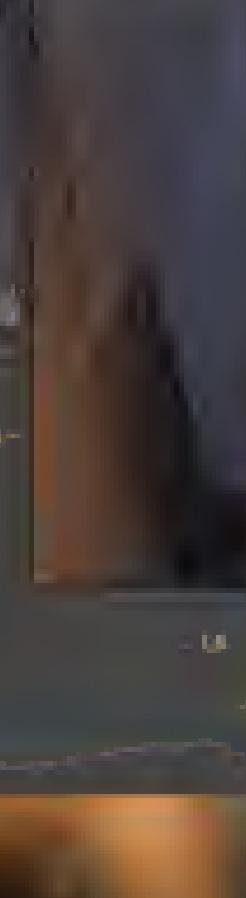

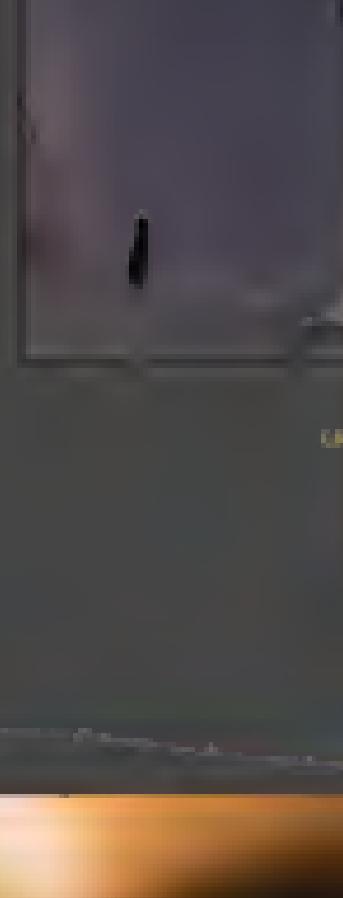

It's suicide to enter
the canyon without a contracted eye artifact.

It's suicide
to enter

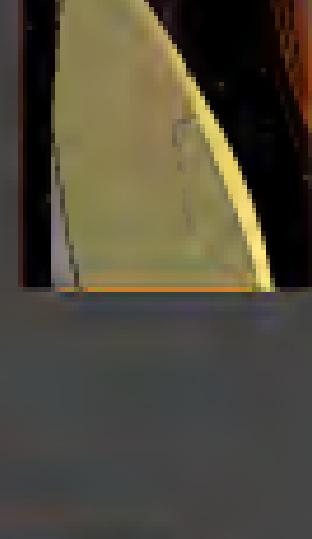

I cannot see if the Dragon remains in the capital, these thunderclouds are impeding my vision.

What's that?

Now!

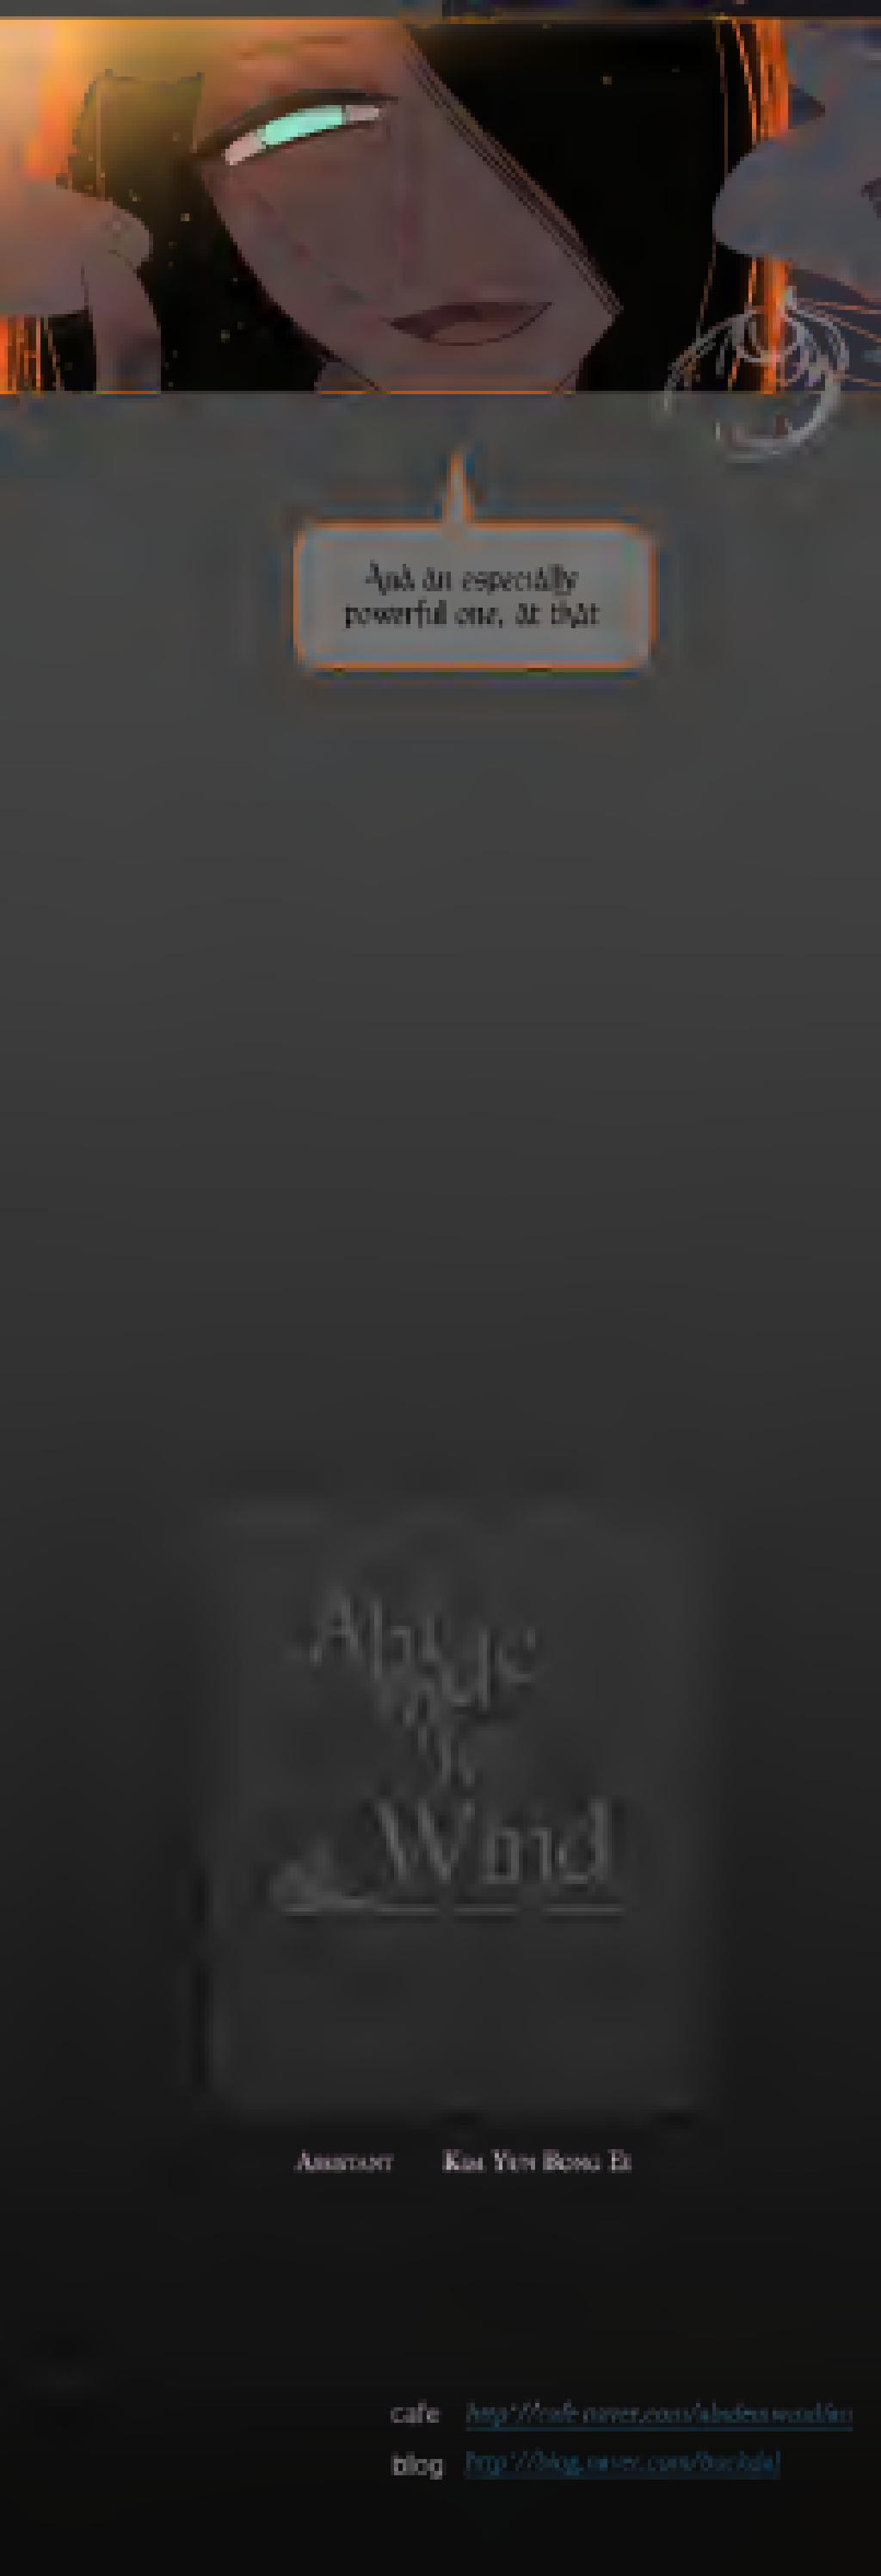

Look at that! There!

A service vehicle has arrived.

What?

And an especially
powerful one, at that
